Professional Summary

I love building fast, easy-to-use, and scalable websites, SaaS platforms, and CRM tools. With 2.5 years of experience, my journey started with a simple question: "How does the internet work?" That curiosity led me to learn JavaScript, TypeScript, and the MERN stack. At first, I focused on creating reusable UI components. Over time, I started building complete full-stack systems and added AI to make apps smarter and more useful. I've also created three helpful NPM packages to solve common problems developers face. I enjoy turning complex problems into simple, clean solutions, always keeping the user experience in mind.
